DEFINITION
[Appendix Number : 3 (three)]

All Sections

1. Wet risk

Means any works, where more than say 15% of its value is in, under or over water or is below the high water mark of any tidal body of water. The term shall include contracts of the construction of wharfs, piers, marinas, causeways, breakwaters, jetties, dry docks and offshore pipelines when connected directly to on-shore facilities and canal developments.

2. Off shore risk

Offshore risk basically are those located in the sea away from the coast.

3. Difference in Conditions (DIC)

DIC insurance is a type of policy that provides an expanded coverage for some perils not covered by standard insurance policies. DIC is designed to fill in gaps in insurance coverage and is most frequently used by larger organisations. looking for protection from catastrophic perils.

4. Cession of Works

Construction risks can become dormant for a number of reasons, including cash flow or payment disputes and etc. Dormant sites is unattractive to insurers who provide cover for plant, machinery and works and public liability. From an insurance perspective, when a site becomes dormant the risk exposure increases significantly as plant and equipment become more vulnerable to damage and liability claims. Criminals will often target dormant sites to steal valuable metals, machinery and building materials.

This clause places an obligation on the policyholder to notify their insurer if work ceases for a set period of time, usually say 30 to 60 days. Insurers have the right to modify their policy terms. For example they may want to impose greater security measures, increase their premium or policy excesses or in some cases even withdraw cover completely.

- (h) The Reinsured may also elect to cancel the participation of any individual subscribing Reinsurer that ceases underwriting. The effective date of such cancellation shall be determined at the sole discretion of the Reinsured provided that the date so determined shall not be earlier than the date upon which the relevant Reinsurer ceased underwriting..
